The Science of Survival Lectures. 50th Anniversary Edition (Lectures, 50th Anniversary Edition) By L. Ron Hubbard

(1 Paperback Transcripts and Glossary and 4 audio cassettes) Science of Survival is a truly monumental work. Its original subtitle, "Simplified, Faster Dianetics Techniques" understates the book's real scope. It is in fact the first accurate prediction of human behavior in man's history. In the months that followed the publication of Science of Survival and its Chart of Human Evaluation, Ron lectured frequently on the subject of human behavior and expanded on the use of the book and chart. Two of these lectures are presented here. In "Theta-MEST Theory" Ron gives the how and why of the Tone Scale and the Chart of Human Evaluation. He shows exactly how a being's collisions with the universe of matter, energy, space and time determine his level on the Tone Scale, and how that level can decline over a lifetime, ending in death. And more importantly, he shows how to reverse the process with Dianetics technology. In "The Chart of Human Evaluation" Ron shows how to use the chart to cut through a person's social veneer to reach the true character of the person - their attitudes, honesty and future behavior. He demonstrates the many indicators one can use to tag a person on the chart - including the appearance of their body, their medical state, what they find humorous and many other factors. These two milestone lectures are now being made available for the first time as the Science of Survival Lectures.
