Editorial Review

About the Author
Moe Martin is a photographer who is also interested in many animals - including aquarium-dwellers. He decided to marry his two interests when he discovered Aquascaping. This idea of art and animal life intertwined has had him hooked on the aesthetic nature of the hobby. Moe is also the lover of all animals, and has more than he can count of the 4-legged variety, all the way down to fish. He lives on a small acreage with his two children and hopes they carry on educating others on the fascinating animals discovered along the way.
