I Hate School By Jeanne Willis

A hilarious picture book about the joys of school from the top class team, Jeanne Willis and Tony Ross.

Honor Brown cannot find a good word to say about her school despite much prompting. She insists that her teacher is a warty toad, the water tray has killer sharks in it, and even her friends are loathsome. But when the time comes to move on to “Big School,” she sits in the corner and sobs! Maybe it wasn’t so bad after all.

Editorial Review

From School Library Journal
Kindergarten-Grade 3–Honor Brown, a wildly imaginative girl, gives a litany of reasons for hating school. Facing forward with arms folded on the cover, she has a devil's tail poking out from her skirt and horns sticking up from her hat. In the rhyming text, an unidentified narrator probes to find out why the child abhors school; the queries are followed by Honor's vividly detailed replies. She explains: "My teacher is a warty toad!/My classroom is a hole!/The cafeteria ladies feed us worms,/And rabbit poo, and coal!" The teaching methods are unorthodox: "They throw us out of windows,/And they make us walk on glass./I've heard they cut your head off/If you're talking during class." However, although she has hated school for years, on the day that she can leave, she cries and proclaims, "I'll really miss it, though." Left unanswered: What is it that actually set the child off on her rant and rage? Rendered in pen, ink, and watercolor, the bright, energetic cartoons convey Honor's jaunty antics. Filled with hairy monsters and unappealing-looking faculty members, the artwork provides the perfect accompaniment to the exaggerated humor of the text. This amusing story is a great anecdote for one of those bad days at school.–Marian Creamer, Children's Literature Alive, Portland, OR

Review
"A boon for parents" Independent "Should go down well with children of four and over." Daily Telegraph "Pokes fun at fear of school with lavish doses of absurdity." Glasgow Herald "An absolute hoot" Books for Keeps "'Honor Brown has a huge imagination and she hasn't a good word to say about her school. She tells people her teacher is a warty toad, the water tray has killer sharks in it ... But when she has to move on to 'Big School' she realises it wasn't so bad after all.'" -- Hayley Macdonald Brown Waterstones Books Quarterly Issue 17

From the Inside Flap
A hilarious picture book about the joys of school, from a winning writer/illustrator partnership.

Honour Brown does not have a good word to say for her school despite much prompting. Her teacher is a warty toad, the sandpit has killer sharks in it, and even her friends are horrible. But when the times comes to move onto ?big school,? she sits in the corner and sobs! Maybe it wasn?t so bad, after all.
